Notes:

Al Andrew Shope (formerly spelled Schoppe) emigrated from the Palatinate, Germany, to the American colonies, landing in Philadelphia October 22, 1754, having made the voyage from Rotterdam on the ship Halifax. He settled in Lancaster County, PA, served in the French and Indian War and afterward took up his permanent abode in Lower Paxton Township, Dauphin County, on a tract of land now (?when? - this from a photocopy taken from History of Dauphin County, date unknown) in possession of his great-grandson. Andrew Shope married and was the father of three sons: Barnhard, Jacob, and Adam. Barnhard married and moved to Centre County, where his descendants now reside. Jacob and Adam divided the farm, the former disposing of his portion. Jacob Shope married a Miss Hart, and their children were Adam, Jacob, Barnhard, David, Barbara, Mary, Elizabeth, and Catharine. Jacob Shope died at the advanced age of 37.

B1 Barnhard Shope was born on the homestead, which he cultivated for his father, during the winter months following the weaver's trade, his wife preparing the wool and spinning the warp. He was an old line Whig in politics, and a Dunkard in religion, his wife being a member of the German Reformed Church.

B3 Adam Shope, son of Andrew Shope, was born in Paxton Township and inherited a portion of his father's farm on which he passed his entire life. He took a leading part in local affairs, and served in the War of 1812, with the rank of lieutenant. Adam Shope married a Miss Park, whose parents, with several members of their family, were killed in the Wyoming ^{Valley} massacre, one son being carried off by the Indians. Miss Park, who was then two years old, was saved by a neighbor, Daniel Page, who wrapped her in his overcoat and fled with her to a place of safety.

Leah Handis Shope, wife of Daniel Shope D3, had a fraternal twin sister Rachel, who married a Keller. They had one child.
